Making all the right moves

Some members of the Shift Technologies team have been given an insight into the moves and the benefits of yoga during an impromptu training session recently.

Mr Ravinder from Fujitsu Consulting, who was working with us on the Oracle ERP Stabilisation project, happened to reveal that he was also a yoga guru. Staff were very interested to see how these techniques could enhance their minds and bodies in their high-stress desk jobs.

Mr Ravinder held a session giving an insight into how yoga works, and also taught basic 'asanas' (postures) and 'pranayams' (breathing techniques) useful for modern executives.

The session proved both educational and fun and a few of our colleagues are continuing these exercises at home.

Lying down on the job: Some members of the Shift Technology staff get to grips with yoga techniques.
